LOGS OF THE SHIPS.

Captain Lemley Offers Several of Them as Evidence.

NEW YORK'S RECORD NOT INCLUDED.

Admiral Schley's Attorneys Insist That the Log of Sampson's Ship Also Go In as Well as of the Spanish Vessel Cristobal Colon.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The members of the Schley naval court of inquiry found the accommodations of the improvised court room at the navy yard somewhat improved when it met at the usual hour Monday. The long bare room which hitherto had been open from floor to roof, had been in appearance, at least completely transformed by the addition of a ceiling of plain white cloth. This had the effect also of improving the acoustics of the hall so that the court and others had less difficulty than formerly in hearing the witnesses.

Among the witnesses who reported were Rear Admiral C. S. Cotton, Commanders James Madison Miner, A. B. Bates and S. C. Heilner, Captains B. H. and William C. Wise and Lieutenants John Hood and Spencer S. Wood.

It was authoritatively stated that the navy department has no intention, at present, of bringing Rear Admiral Sampson as a witness or to participate in any other manner at the inquiry.

Admiral Dewey with a sharp rap of his gavel, called the court to order at 11 o'clock. There was at the time a somewhat larger attendance on the part of the general public than there had been heretofore at the beginning of the sittings, but there were fewer distinguished personages occupying the reserved seats.

Captain Lemley presented the deck logbooks of the Brooklyn, Texas, Iowa, Castine, Marblehead, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Orleans, St. Paul, Scorpion, Yale, Vixen, Eagle, Dupont, Hawkes and Merrimac.

"How about the New York?" asked Judge Wilson. "I want to expediate the proceedings."

"I have no objection," responded Captain Lemley. "I, too, want to hasten the proceedings as much as possible." Proceeding, Captain Lemley said he had suggested such logs as he considered essential and that he would have printed the points considered pertinent. He then indicated the time that he desired covered by the matter to be printed, but Admiral Schley's counsel objected and asked that the entire logs from the time that the fleet left Key West until after the battle of Santiago be made available. After exchanges of opinion on the part of the counsel the understanding was reached that such parts of the logs as the other side desired, could be printed. Captain Lemley also presented the steam logs of the Brooklyn, Texas, Massachusetts, Iowa and Marblehead.

Admiral Schley's counsel asked to have the log of the Spanish ship Cristobal Colon presented. "Very well, if we can find a Spanish scholar to go through it and select the facts wanted," said Captain Lemley. "Admiral Schley is a good Spanish scholar and he can make such selections as we may desire," responded Mr. Rayner. Commander Schroeder was recalled and asked if he desired to make any corrections in the official record of his testimony of Saturday. "There is one omission from Admiral Schley's remarks on the Massachusetts the day of the bombardment of the Colon which I overheard which I would like to supply," he replied.

"It is this: He said when he came aboard that Admiral Sampson would be there the following day. He made that statement in connection with his remark that he was going to sink the Colon."

Comander Schroeder was then asked concerning the coal supply of the Massachusetts and when he replied that he had no information on that point, he was asked to read the log to secure this information. Consul for Admiral Schley objected, but Assistant Judge Advocate Hanna insisted, saying that Admiral Schley's counsel was merely creating delay by their objections. "I propose to develop the facts in this case and technical objections will not avail to prevent," he said. The purpose of this inquiry was to develop what Messrs. Lemley and Hanna considered an error in Admiral Higginson's testimony.

When Commander Schroeder left the stand he was requested to return Tuesday and correct the official copy of his testimony of Monday if necessary. He said he would do so and asked if he could be excused. "I desire to make my preparations for returning to Guam," he said. He was told that he could do so.

Lieutenant Commander L. O. Heilner, who was navigator of the Texas during the Spanish war, was next called. He said he had heard no gunfire when the squadron approached Cienfuegos. To his knowledge no effort was made to ascertain whether the Spanish fleet was in the harbor at that point or to destroy Spanish works there. Nor had there been any effort to communicate with the Cubans on shore until Captain McCalla arrived on the Marblehead. He told how the fleet had proceeded from Cienfuegos to within 20 miles of Santiago. "We had," he said, "good weather; a fresh wind and a sea that was moderate rough." None of the fighting ships had delayed the fleet he said, but some of the smaller vessels had. The fleet was signalled that the rendezvous would be 25 miles to the south of Santiago. Commander Heilner said that while the Texas was not in the engagement with the Colon May 31, he had seen some of the shots from the enemy which had fallen short. The witness was then asked to describe the battle of July 3, and said: "The Texas had been heading about east when the enemy was seen coming out of Santiago. Lieutenant Bristol, who was officer of the deck at the time, rang to go ahead full speed and put helm hard to starboard to make a turn. When I got on deck, he informed me of what had happened and I sent him below and assumed charge of the deck. The captain told me that he had eased their helm until he could find out which way the ships were going and he also rang half speed. I suggested full speed. He said the battery was not ready. I told him it would be ready before the ship was in position to fire and then he said 'All right,' and rang full speed. When the second of the enemy's ships followed, the first to westward he put the helm hard to starboard. I made several reports to him about the Brooklyn regarding her signals. He said 'Never mind.' I also referred to the way I thought the Brooklyn was standing up to fight—very nicely. The captain said 'Oh crackie, never mind the Brooklyn. You look out for this ship.' The Brooklyn then was about on her port beam. So I said: 'All right, captain. I will look at the Brooklyn no more,' and I turned my back, looking on the starboard beam at the ships getting out. After we sheered around and got to the westward I suggested to give her a little port helm to get closer in, and he did. Right after he gave her the helm, he sang out through the sight hole, to the men at the wheel and at the engine room indicator to slow, then stop, and I said, 'Captain, they will all get away from us.'

"He did not answer me but immediately stepped back, and then I said, 'My Lord, captain, we are out of the fight.' He said: 'Look at the Brooklyn.' I turned around and right ahead of us the big grey ship loomed up out of the smoke. For a second I thought my heart was in my mouth. We were steaming with a heavy helm and she steered by us. When I saw her she was practically ahead of us. That is the first I saw. She sheered off and went to sea, I should say about 2,000 yards and then on to the westward. As soon as the Brooklyn cleared us we rang to go ahead and started up forced draft again. After that we simply followed on as fast as we could on a line that was just inside the line where the Oregon was engaging the ships. Just before this turn of the Brooklyn, the Iowa and the Oregon were both close to us on our starboard helm. We continued the chase until the Colon hauled down her flag when the captain gave the order to stop force draft."

The afternoon was devoted to the cross examination of Commander Heilner by Mr. Raynor. He had testified that the Brooklyn was only 1,500 yards from the Texas when she made the famous loup, but an official chart, which witness testified he had helped to prepare as one of an official board of navigators, showed the distance to be 1,800 yards. When asked if the vessels were not nearer each other than 2,400 yards, witness said he considered the map inaccurate, which Mr. Hanna was willing to admit. Mr. Raynor remarked, "It is a great pity you never conceded that before." Captain Lemley said there had been no opportunity. Mr. Raynor commented vigorously on the fact that the chart was an official document.

Commander Heilner revised his statement by saying the distance was half a mile, as shown by the chart; also that the chart made the Brooklyn go a mile out to sea in making its loop, and that on that point the chart was not accurate. Witness also said the log did not show the signals of the Texas to "slow," "stop," and "back," because Captain Philip did not like to have it in the log, and did not put it in his official report. He said Captain Philip often spoke of it afterward. Concerning the New York, witness said that vessel did not come up till the last Spanish ship came out of the harbor; also that no signals were received from that vessel the day of the battle till in the afternoon.

Captain Lemley objected to the line of questioning. Mr. Raynor explained that Admiral Sampson would be brought into the controversy, to show that Schley was acting by his command; that Schley wanted to prove three things that the failure to further engage the Colon May 31 was in the line of Sampson's policy, that the blockade by Schley was the same in distance as maintained by Sampson, and that the Brooklyn had her place in the line of blockade assigned by Sampson when the Spanish fleet rushed out of the harbor; also that Sampson was not in the fight at all, and that therefore Schley had all the responsibility thrust upon him.

Commander Harber was recalled to go over Captain Philip's reports which were offered as evidence.

Comander Alexander B. Bates of the stand when the court adjourned at 4 Texas was then called and was on the p. m. till 11 a. m.

APPEAL FOR TROOPS.

Kentucky Strikers Open Fire and Make It Hot For Guards.

Madisonville, Ky., Sept. 23.—The governor has been appealed to for troops to hold in check the turbulent coal mine strikers. As the result of an armed attack by a squad of strikers, Judge Nunn has wired Governor Beckham as follows: "It is my opinion that troops are needed here at once to preserve the peace."

The strikers opened fire on Reineck's mines from a grove 500 yards off and gradually came nearer. One squad of 25 or 30 strikers stood within 50 yards of the main road and peppered the street, making it so warm for the guard who was patrolling in front of a row of miners' houses that he beat a hasty retreat. The house nearest the strikers was riddled with bullets. The resistance by the strikers was the most determined yet offered during the strike.

The sheriff is summoning every available able-bodied man in the county. They are being armed and will be placed at the mines to protect the property. A body of 100 armed men arrived from Earlinton and reported to the sheriff for duty.

Engineer Forgot Orders.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 23.—In a head-on collision on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad eight miles north of Cadillac between a regular freight train and an extra passenger train carrying Sunday excursionists from Petoskey to Cadillac, Engineer Fred Zimmerman was killed and five men injured. The wreck was caused by Engineer Zimmerman of the freight train forgetting an order which was given him verbally to side track his train several miles south of the scene of the accident and await the passage of the passenger train. Zimmerman, who lived several hours, said just before he died: "It was all my fault; I forgot. Both engines were reduced to scrap iron."

Bank Officials Indicted.

New York, Sept. 23.—Ex-President William H. Kimball, of the Seventh National bank, Frank B. Poor of the failed firm of Marquand and company and Gamaliel S. Rose, were arraigned before United States Judge Adams on indictments found against them Sept. 11 in connection with the Seventh National bank failure. Assistant United States district attorney Baldwin said the indictments were: First, one for conspiracy against Kimball and Poor; second, one for over-certification of checks against Kimball and Rose; third, one for neglect of duty in permitting fraud against Kimball only.

Chicago Anarchists Go Free.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The anarchists under arrest here go free. In the hearing before Judge Chetland the prosecution said there was no evidence against them and agreed to their discharge. Similar action will be taken in the case of Emma Goldman in the lower court. Emma Goldman received the news of the liberation of her friends with a laugh. "I guess they'll have to let me go now," she said. "It has been shown that the men named as conspirators with me did not conspire; and I fancy they would have trouble trying to show that I conspired all by myself."

Sampson to Be Relieved.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Rear Admiral Sampson has requested the navy department to relieve him of his present duty as commander of the Boston navy yard Oct. 1, on account of the bad condition of his health. Secretary Long has granted the request.

Asylum Burned.

Norfolk, Neb., Sept. 23.—The state asylum and adjacent buildings, eight in all, were destroyed by fire. There were 600 patients in the institution, three of whom are missing and supposed to have been burned to death. The loss is almost total.

All Tube Mills Running.

Pittsburg, Sept. 23.—The National Tube company issued instructions to its sale agents to accept all business at prices current before the strike. The company also announced that all of its mills are in full operation.

Mrs. William Bumpke, 62, of Manistee, Mich., suicided by burning their barn over their head. Poor health.

LEON PLEADED GUILTY

Under the Law Plea Could Not Stand and Trial Proceeded.

INSANITY IS THE ONLY DEFENSE.

Masses of People Try to Gain Admission to the Court Room Where the Assassin of McKinley Is Being Tried For His Crime.

Buffalo, Sept. 23.—Leon F. Czolgosz was placed on trial Monday for the murder of President McKinley Sept. 6. The trial was in the supreme court of Erie county. Judge Truman C. White, presiding. The trial began at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour the streets in the vicinity of city hall were the objective point of many curious persons, willing to take chances on being admitted to the court room even though they knew there were but 150 seats available. Various entrances to the great building were closed and guarded. Policemen were everywhere, and rigid discipline was the order of the day. Squads of blue-coated men were stationed on every landing and in a double line far outside the place of entrance to keep back the crowds, while in a station not far away reserves were ready to reinforce the detail on duty should the feelings of the people become aroused to the extent of rioting. Mounted officers paced slowly around every side of the structure and no one was allowed to stand on the sidewalk for a moment so that at no time was the crowd large. No one outside of the building saw the prisoner as he was taken from his cell to the court room. His guardians made use of the "tunnel of sobs" under the street from the jail to the city hall, and Czolgosz was brought into the court room only a few moments before the hour set for the opening of his trial. No person was admitted to the building without a pass, signed by the chief of police and it was necessary to show this to every policeman on every landing and in every corridor. The officer at the door of the courtroom was especially vigilant and not only examined the passes, but scrutinized the bearers critically before admitting them to the room.

The interior of the city hall, as well as the outside, still bore the somber draperies of mourning and quiet was enforced as befitting the occasion. The counsel for Czolgosz, former Supreme Court Justices Loren L. Lewis and Robert G. Titus, and Carlton S. Ladd, saw him again just before the time of opening court, but he had no more to say to them than when they previously visited him. In view of the meagerness of the opportunity for a defense and the fact that the prisoner refuses absolutely to aid them, it is not improbable that the entire proceedings may be completed within two days.

"The mental condition of the assassin will absolutely be the only defense to be offered," said Judge Titus, and there is no little expectation that they will abandon the case and merely represent Czolgosz formally during the trial. As a result of the examination of two alienists, Dr. Carlos T. McDonald and Dr. Allan McLean Hamilton of New York city, the question of insanity is eliminated from the subjects on which the defense can rely for support.

Part three of the supreme court of Erie county is a small room on the south side, second floor, of the city hall. It is lighted at the south end by latticed windows and here the justice's bench and witness stand are placed. On the right of the room are the jurymen's seats and they have an unobstructed view of the entire room. There is no railing in front of the jurors and the chairs are placed on a platform six inches above the floor.

The enclosure of the bench and bar occupies over one-half of the floor space while the remainder is given over to seats for the general public. Not over 130 of the latter could be accommodated and the seats were mainly occupied by men summoned to serve on the jury.

Czolgosz with his counsel occupied seats directly in front of the justice's bench. The prisoner's chair was just back of Judge Titus, and deputy sheriffs with their maces were placed at various points in the room and quiet was enforced on all. The seats for spectators were filled very slowly, owing to the extreme care shown by the officers in the corridors in admitting those who applied, and it was not until the opening of court was announced that the last seat was occupied.

Dr. Allan McLean Hamilton of New York city was one of the first of those connected with the case to take a position inside the inclosure. Dr. Hamilton, who was the chief insanity expert at the trial of Garfield's assassin, Guiteau, occupied a seat at the table reserved for the prosecution.

District Attorney Penny and his assistant, Frederick Haller, were the next to put in an appearance, and were followed by Judges Lewis and Titus, counsel for the prisoner. Just behind them came Mrs. Truman C. White and her daughter, who were given seats within the enclosure.

At 10 o'clock the formal opening of the court was announced. Justice Truman C. White entered through the center aisle and took his seat upon the bench. The first business of the session had no relation to the case of Czolgosz. It consisted merely of calling the roll of grand jurors for the coming session and they were then excused until Oct. 7.

Clerk of Courts Fischer, after a preliminary "hear ye, hear ye," by the clerk, proceeded with the calling of the jurors summoned for the trial of the Czolgosz case in part three. Of the 36 jurors called only one asked to be excused. He had a saw mill in process of erection, which he said must be finished at once, on account of low water, and he was excused. Justice White then requested the justices of courts one and two, then in session, not to discharge their jurors, but to hold them in readiness for an impaneling in the Czolgosz case. At 10:13 there was a bustle in the corridor and a squad of policemen brought in the prisoner. He was handcuffed to an officer on one side, while in front and behind him walked other uniformed policemen. The prisoner was attired in a new suit of dark gray, a white shirt and a collar and a light blue tie. His face was cleanly shaven and his hair was combed. He sat behind his counsel with two officers in plain clothing immediately in his rear.

District Attorney Penny proceeded at once with the reading of the indictment. He spoke to Czolgosz in a low voice, in fact so low that when the prisoner was asked to plead he seemed not to understand what was said.

Justice White asked him: "What have you to say?" There was a moment's hesitation. Then the prisoner's lips moved as if to make reply, but before he could do so, his junior counsel, Mr. Lewis, arose to speak, not having seen the prisoner's motion. Justice White, however, insisted that Czolgosz should speak and the prisoner said: "I did not hear what he said." District Attorney Penny then read the indictment again in a louder voice and to the demand for a reply, the prisoner, who was standing at the time, said in a very low voice, "guilty." This plea, however, was not permitted to stand, under the law, and a plea of "not guilty" was at once ordered by the court.

Mr. Titus, counsel for the defense, then arose and stated the facts as already known as to his connection with the case. He explained that the position of himself and associates, Judge Lewis and Mr. Ladd, was peculiar and consisted mainly in making sure that all the forms of law and justice were observed in the prosecution.

Justice White in reply complimented counsel for the defense and said that the prisoner could have no better counsel and that whatever the outcome it would reflect only credit and honor on them. The examination and swearing in of the jurors was then begun, the prisoner standing as each was sworn.

There were only four women in the court room, three inside the railing as guests of the court and one in the spectators' seats. John G. McBurn, the host of President McKinley, came into the court room at 11:30. One by one the government witnesses had come in and at 11:30 there were present: Assistant Superintendent P. B. Gusk of the police, Dr. Herman Myrner and Dr. M. D. Mann, who attended the president; Dr. James W. Putnam, Dr. Joseph Fowler and Dr. F. S. Crego, local physicians.

At 12:43 p. m. the 12 jurors were secured, namely: Frederick V. Lauer, plumber; Richard J. Garwood, street railway foreman; Henry W. Wendt, manufacturer; Silas Carmer, farmer; James S. Stygall, plumber; William Loton, farmer; Walter E. Everett, blacksmith; Benjamin J. Ralph, bank cashier; Samuel P. Wadco, farmer; Andrew J. Smith, produce dealer; Joachim H. Bartens, shoe merchant; Robert J. Adams, contractor.

After the jurors were sworn Assistant District Attorney Haller made the opening statement for the prosecution.

He reviewed the assassination of the president, his illness and death. The prosecution would endeavor to prove, said he, that the defendant had been for several days prior to the shooting informed of President McKinley's movements, that he entered the Temple of Music at the Pan-American exposition grounds with a weapon concealed beneath a handkerchief in his hands; that he appeared before the president to shake hands with him and fired the shots that resulted in the death of the chief executive. The prosecution expects to present all its evidence by Tuesday noon. Counsel for defense were unable to say how much time they would require.

Samuel J. Fields, a civil engineer, was the first witness. He was chaf-engineer of the Pan-American exposition and visited the Temple of Music the day of the crime to take measurements of the positions of articles at the time the tragedy occurred, concerning which he testified in detail.

Percy A. Bliss, the second witness, testified as to photographs of the scene of the assassination in Music Temple. Dr. Gaylord, who performed the autopsy, testified as to the nature of the wounds, the search for the second bullet and the disclosures of the autopsy, as heretofore published.

At 4 o'clock court adjourned till Tuesday morning.

LARGE CROWD

Greeted the Rival Candidates for U. S. Senator Monday.

McCreary and Wheeler Made Things Interesting For Each Other—Judge Cantrill's and Hon. D. H. Smith's Remarks.

A large and enthusiastic crowd greeted the Democratic aspirants for the U. S. Senatorship at the court house Monday afternoon, notwithstanding the present is a busy time in the country. Maysville and Mason County should feel proud that the decision was reached to open the Senatorial campaign here. It shows that the people of the State have their eyes turned toward us. Hon. Chas. K. Wheeler led off in the speaking, making a brilliant effort. He deplored the death of McKinley at the hands of a foul assassin, but did not think the act more damnable than was the assassination of Gov. Goebel.

The whole Democracy of the South, he said, sent up its prayer for the recovery of McKinley and demanded the quick and complete punishment of his murderer; but when Goebel was shot the greater portion of the Republicans in Kentucky and elsewhere did not raise a voice in prayer for him, or shed a tear of grief in his behalf. He compared the assassin of McKinley who took his life in his hands and shot his victim in broad daylight, knowing that death awaited him in punishment for his deed, while the assassin of Goebel skulked behind curtains in a darkened room. Mr. Wheeler in the course of his remarks impeached the public career of ex-Gov. McCreary, one of his opponents. He was followed by Mr. McCreary, who made an able and eloquent defense of his public acts. He answered Mr. Wheeler's allusions to him at some length, and it was generally conceded that he is amply able to take care of himself.

Mr. McCreary was followed by Judge Cantrill, who impressed all with his honesty and sincerity. He is a typical Kentuckian, and his address has made him numerous friends.

Hon. David K. Smith, Congressman from the Fourth district, closed with a carefully reasoned speech. His discourse upon the Constitution was both instructive and entertaining, and in a masterful manner he showed that the present Republican administration had disregarded the plain provisions of the Constitution. He also showed that the Republicans were reckless and wanton in the expenditure of the public funds. Each speaker had forty minutes for his address, while Mr. Wheeler had ten minutes for response.

Carter County Bugle: "Two weeks ago last Sunday the seventeen-year-old son of Lark Nelson, near Carter City, loaded a little shot gun too heavy and when the gun was discharged the breech-pin flew out and imbedded itself entirely in his forehead. He lived until the following Saturday when he died. The post-mortem examination was made by Dr. Ferguson and others, and it was found that the breech pin was lodged in the center of his brain, yet for hours after the accident the boy walked about the house and talked freely."

The Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., Saturday decided that where a saloon is run in connection with a hotel, the proprietor of the hotel shall be regarded as a saloon keeper, and not eligible to membership in the order. It was decided that hotel keepers with bars, already admitted to the order, may take out withdrawal cards. It was decided if an Oddfellow in emergency was called on to take charge of a hotel with a bar, he would be subjected to trial, but not necessarily to expulsion, unless he insisted on tending bar. An agent for a brewery under the Grand Lodge's ruling is not regarded as ineligible.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient Maysville Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times.

Nothing spoils a good disposition, Nothing taxes a man's patience, Like any itchiness of the skin. Itching Piles almost drive you crazy. All day it makes you miserable, All night it keeps you awake, Itch! Itch! Itch! with no relief. Just the same with Eczema. Can hardly keep from scratching it. You would do so, but you know it makes it worse.

Such miseries are daily decreasing. People are learning they can be cured. Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment. Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure Piles, Eczema or any Itchiness of the skin.

Read the testimony of a Maysville citizen.

Mrs. H. Poth, of Forest avenue, says: "Doan's Ointment is a wonderful preparation and cures as if by magic. For a long time I had an itching of the scalp which was particularly troublesome just before a rain. Learning that Doan's Ointment was highly recommended for all troubles of this nature I got a box at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drugstore, corner of West Second and Market streets. Its use soon ended the irritation. Two months have since elapsed and I have had no return whatever of the affliction."

BEASLEY--RAWLINGS.

Members of Two Former Families of Mason County Married at Bellevue.

The wedding of Miss Nannie L. Rawlings, of Covington, to Mr. Wm. Lee Beasley, of Bellevue, was a very pretty affair of Wednesday evening, Sept. 18th, at 7:30 o'clock at the Bellevue Christian Church. The ceremony was performed by Elder J. B. Jones, the service being very impressive. The church was beautifully decorated with tropical plants and white ribbons.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the attendants marched in single file and formed a line on each side; they were Miss Stella Rawlings and Miss Edythe White, gowned in pink organdie with white trimmings, and Mr. Thomas Fenton and Mr. Stanley Whiteley. These were followed on one side by the bride and her sister, Miss Sarepta Rawlings, and on the other side by the groom and his attendant.

The bride was exceeding pretty in her gown of French batiste, with lace trimmings. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of roses, while her sister, Miss Sarepta, wore a dainty gown of Paris mousseline.

Mr. and Mrs. Beasley left soon after the ceremony for New York, Washington and other Eastern points. Mrs. Beasley's father, Mr. W. B. Rawlings, was a former resident of Mason, and has many relatives near Maysville. As previously stated the groom is a son of Mr. Ezekiel Beasley, formerly of this city.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham, of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she would die from pneumonia before morning," writes Mrs. S. H. Further use entirely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all throat, chest and lung diseases. Only 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at J. Jas. Wood & Son's drug store.

Montgomery County Republicans have nominated Col. A. T. Wood for County Judge.

Judge Cochran opened United States Court at Frankfort Monday. About eighty-six criminal cases are on the docket, most being moonshine and violations of the election laws.

Taylor didn't run to "Injany" because he was innocent, but rather because he was guilty, as all men may readily see. Had he stayed in Kentucky he would have been found guilty, and, as he ran away, he declared his guilt in unmistakable terms, and to the satisfaction of all candid men. These are the facts of the case and they don't admit of any controversy. Now Taylor at Washington has stirred up great controversy when he offers twenty pounds of granulated sugar for $1 and ten pounds Arbuckle, Golden Rio or Levering coffee for $1.

Is not necessary to procure the kind of Footwear suitable for a well-dressed woman. Some complain that the proper lasts, mode, cut and the correct weight for street and house Shoes are found wanting in the houses here.

This may, in a measure, have been true in the past; it is not so at present. A casual inspection of the lines carried by us will convince the most fastidious that they can procure, right at home, minus the cost of transportation to the city, the same Shoes to be found there.

We think we are at least entitled to the consideration of those who purchase Shoes, and ask that you inspect our stock before going out of town for what is to be had here at home.

FRANK OWENS HARDWARE COMPANY.

The reception given at the Christian Church last evening as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Howard T. Cree and to welcome the new minister, Robert Edmund Moss, was attended by a very large crowd, many from the other churches of the city as well as many not members of any church being in attendance. The auditorium presented a very attractive scene with its decorations of plants and flowers, and the feeling manifested by the large assemblage must have been gratifying indeed to the retiring minister and his good wife who have endeared themselves to such a host of friends. Mr. Moss was an hour late arriving, his train having been detained by a big fire at Lexington, but the welcome he received was a most cordial one. The Maysville Orchestra rendered a number of selections during the evening. Ices and cakes were served in the chapel by the ladies of the church. At the close Mr. Cree spoke a few words in farewell, followed by Mr. Moss, who voiced the sorrow over the parting with Mr. and Mrs. Cree, and asked for himself the sympathy and cordial support that had been given the retiring minister. Mr. Cree closed with a fervent prayer for God's blessings upon all.

Mr. C. B. Simrall, aged fifty-eight, counsel for the C. and O. and Cincinnati Southern railroad at Cincinnati, died Monday at his home in Grant County. He had been an invalid for several months. The wife of Mr. William Durrett, formerly of Washington, is one of his surviving daughters.

CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET.

But Little Change To Be Noted the Past Week—Receipts Exceed the Offerings.

	Week.	1901.	1900.
Offerings.....		716	1,316
Rejections.....		145	261
Actual sales.....		571	1,055
Per cent. rejections.....		20 1/2	20
Receipts.....		1,672	702

The 716 hhd. offered averaged $7.87 per 100 pounds as against $8.13 for the 1,038 hhd. for the previous week, and $8.17 for the 1,316 hhd. for the corresponding week of last year.

Little change was to be noted in the sales during the past week beyond a slight advance in and a better demand for medium leaf. The aggregate offerings were lighter than the previous week, as there were no sales on Thursday.

Red tobaccos ruled strong, some of the best packages bringing what shippers considered very fair prices. The strictly good color grades also sold well, but the inferior ones were weak and neglected in the bidding.

Medium red fillers were in a little better demand, but not higher, while the common lugs and tips averaged about up to the previous week's quotations.

The Western Tobacco Journal says in part: "With the condition of the market as it is, one grade being in demand this week, and another next week, warehousemen give the advice that holders of tobacco would do well to watch the market and offer the different grades as the demand for them presents itself, instead of putting up leaf, lugs and trashes all at one time. By feeding the market with what it needs better prices will be got."

The receipts continue to come in steadily, and to exceed the offerings. The sales ought to increase, but there seems to be a tendency on the part of shippers to hold off until the new crop is housed and cured.
